

Write Like: First Person to Third Person

Review your house diagram. Think of another incident about which you could write.

Write about this incident, but write from the third person point-of-view.

Your narrative should be at least 2 paragraphs.

1st person to 3rd person

My alarm clock went off this morning. As usual, I stared at it disbelievingly. I squinted my eyes to see what time it was: 5:15. No way. It seemed like I'd just fallen asleep. No way could I get up yet. I felt the cool air coming in through the window; that made me bury deeper under my covers. I pushed the snooze button--15 more blissful minutes until it would go off again.

Her alarm clock went off this morning. As usual, she stared at it disbelievingly. Brittanica squinted her eyes to see what time it was: 5:15. No way. It seemed like she'd just fallen asleep. No way could she get up yet. She felt the cool air coming in through the window; that made her bury deeper under her covers. She pushed the snooze button--15 more blissful minutes until it would go off again.
